

Public Lecture

“Scandinavia and the Second World War.”

by
Professor Richard Overy

Old College, University of Edinburgh.
Thursday 8 April, 2010, 5.15 p.m.

*Richard Overy is Professor of History at the University of Exeter. He has published widely on the history of the Second World War, the Hitler and Stalin dictatorships and the history of airpower. His most recent books include The Dictators: Hitler's Germany and Stalin's Russia, The Morbid Age: Britain and the Crisis of Civilization and 1939: Countdown to War. He is currently preparing a book on the bombing war in the Second World War. He is the General Editor of the Times History of the World and a Fellow of the British Academy.*

Organised by:
Centre for the Study of the Two World Wars in the School of History, Classics and Archaeology,
Scandinavian Studies in the School of Literatures
Languages and Cultures.

With generous support from samarbetsnämnden för
Nordenundervisning i utlandet/ Pohjoismaiden kielten ja kulttuurin ulkomaanopetuksen toimikunta/Samstarfsnefnd um kennslu í Nordurlandafræðum erlendis and the Royal Norwegian Consulate General in Edinburgh.